Dear <First Name>,

The 2023 AGB National Conference on Trusteeship, April 2–4 in San Diego, California, is on track to be one of our largest convenings ever. We hope you will join your fellow board members, presidents, and a distinguished group of industry thought leaders at the premier national conference for trustees of higher education institutions. This year's conference will focus on transcending significant governance and leadership challenges.

With the level of interest we've seen so early, we expect to sell out prior to the registration deadline. With the conference still two months away, we already have more than 500 registrations from the institutions on the enclosed list.

Visit AGB.org/NCT23 to view the detailed agenda, which includes:

Deep-Dive Strategy and Peer Leadership Sessions

- Strategy Summit: Identify key strategies rapidly, engage stakeholders effectively, and respond to challenges nimbly in this half-day session designed for trustees and presidents. Includes a free benchmarking report from AGB Consulting.
- Bootcamp for New Trustees and Orientation Leaders: Take a deep dive into rethinking new member orientation to focus on inspiration and impact.
- More than 30 peer roundtables designed for specific board roles.

Specialized Concurrent Sessions

- International Strategies for Colleges and Universities
- Board Governance for Student Success: The Case of Kentucky
- What Boards Need to Know about Post-Graduate Success and Student Debt

This year's conference includes a special evening cocktail reception and "Top Gun" leadership discussion featuring two prominent higher education leaders: one a Top

Gun graduate holding the national record for carrier-arrested landings—including nearly 400 on the USS Midway, now a museum within eyeshot of the conference hotel—and the other a past under secretary of the U.S. Navy and former U.S. Air Force aerobatics instructor.

- Ted Carter, president, University of Nebraska System; former superintendent, U.S. Naval Academy; former president, U.S. Naval War College
- Janine Davidson, president, Metropolitan State University of Denver; former under secretary of the U.S. Navy

Some of the most important conversations about the future of higher education will take place at the 2023 National Conference on Trusteeship. I look forward to seeing you there.
